In addition to filing regularly required campaign disclosure statements, candidates, officeholders, ballot measure committees, political parties, PACs, and major donors may file late contribution reports and other special filings. These usually occur in the 90 days preceding Election Day. Contributions and independent expenditures of $1,000 or more are disclosed within 24 hours of the time they are made or received. You may search in this section by filer, by date, by candidate, and by proposition. Click here for definitions of filing requirements. At any other time, contributions of $5,000 or more are disclosed within 10 days.
